Parties prepare for February 18 vote

Two of the federal political parties in the Victoria-Haliburton riding have selected their candidates for the February 18 election. A third is expected to be chosen today.

Bill Scott, the incumbent MP, was selected again by the Progressive Conservative Party to contest the election. His selection came at a nomination meeting Saturday in Lindsay. He was the only person who indicated his intention to seek the nod.

A crowd of close to 500 was on hand at the high school auditorium in Lindsay to endorse the PC candidate. Despite blustery weather and slippery road conditions many individuals from Haliburton County were on hand for the nominating convention.

The meeting was addressed by Belleville MP Jack Ellis.

Speaking to the crowd following his nomination, Scott blamed the Liberal and NDP parties for the winter election.

"The Liberals feel they have the divine right to govern this country," Scott commented. He pointed out the election will cost over $60 million.

Commenting on the Conservative energy policies Scott said. The Clark government has tried hard to encourage oil exploration and development -- that is the reason for the four cent per litre tax on gasoline. The PC policy has tried to keep Canadian oil prices 15 per cent lower than those charged in the United States."

Scott called on his supporters to "work hard to elect a Conservative majority".

NDP

In the New Democratic camp, Ottawa school teacher Patrick Daniel has been selected as the banner carrier for the up-coming vote. He was unopposed in his nomination bid.

The NDP meeting was held Sunday at the Legion Hall in Lindsay.

Colin Isaacs, the MPP for Wentworth, was the guest speaker at the meeting. Party organizers described the gathering as "well attended".

In accepting the nomination, Daniel lashed out at the Conservative government for promises made during the May 1979 campaign. "How can we have confidence in a government that waits five months to call Parliament into session after telling us the economic problems of the country require urgent attention?" Daniel asked. He also pointed to the change in direction the Conservative have taken on the Canadian embassy in Israel, the government's mortgage tax deductability scheme and the PC's policy with regard to Petrocan.

"Clark has had his chance to show us what he can do and he has muffed it," Daniels stated.

"We offer a well-respected competent leader, one who has refused to stray from the issues into petty bickering and name-calling," the candidate said.

Daniel predicted that the NDP would garner more than the 6700 votes picked up in the 1979 election.

Liberals

The local Liberal association is expected to select their candidate at a nominating meeting to be held tonight (January 16) in Lindsay. As of press time only one individual has indicated his intention to seek the nomination.

Ivan Rodd, a Lindsay businessman has announced he will contest the Liberal nomination.

"I am deeply concerned with the lack of regard and concern of the Clark government has shown," Rodd commented in announcing his intention to run. "In my opinion, the budget on which the government was defeated would be a disaster to many people in our riding."

Rodd is the president of Lindsay Cleaners and has been active in community affairs for a number of years.

A helping hand

A donation of $2000 to the Five Counties Children's Centre, Peterborough, was made Monday evening by the Minden Rotary Club. The funds are part of an amount raised by the organization during the Snowarama held last year. The centre provides rehabilitation and treatment for crippled children in Haliburton County. Accepting the cheque on behalf of the centre is vice president, Bob Morrow of Haliburton. Ray Cox, centre, made the presentation on behalf of the local club. Also on hand for the ceremony was Rotary Club President Bob Penfold, left, Lionel Walker, chairman of the Minden Rotary Club Snowarama, and Don Hart, right, Regional co-ordinator for the Ontario society for Crippled Children.

Cordwood costs jump $19 at Minden depot

Once again this year the Ministry of Natural Resources will be providing access to fuelwood for consumers in the Minden area. However, this year those taking advantage of the program will note a $19 per cord increase in the cost of the wood.

This is the second year for the fuelwood program. Last year the wood cost $20 per cord while this season the price has jumped to $39 per cord.

Ministry officials explain the increase by noting that the wood will have to be hauled from a farther distance. The higher fee reflects this increased cost.

There will also be a second depot for fuelwood in the county. This will be in the Gooderham area. Wood taken from this collection point will cost the consumer $24 per cord.

Under the program the Ministry purchases the cut logs from companies working in the area. These logs are then delivered to a central depot where consumers cut and load their own supplies. Ministry personnel will be on hand during the operation to measure each load being removed and assess the fees.

The Minden depot will be located at the gravel pit on the Bobcaygeon Road, north of the Scotch Line Road. The access road will be the same one used to reach the Haliburton County Marksmen Club range. The depot will be open Friday, Saturday and Sunday of each week beginning January 18. The hours of operation are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

According to ministry figures the $39 per cord charge at the Minden depot equates to approximately $13 for a half ton truck load.

Individuals wishing to purchase only small amounts of wood can do so with a minimum $5 charge.

The sale of the wood is open to anyone who is willing to cut, load and haul away the amount they are willing to pay for. The only restriction at the Minden depot is that mechanical loaders not be used.

The location of the Gooderham area woodlot will be along side the Monmouth Forest Access Road. To reach the site travel one mile east of Tory Hill on Highway 121, turn right on the Hadlington Road and travel about four miles, then left on the Monmouth Forest Access Road for about three miles. This site will be open seven days a week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The depot opened Monday.

Windy weekend

Winds gusting up to 90 kilometres per hour raced through the Minden area Friday creating treacherous driving conditions and causing damage in a number of locations. This steel shed, which was formerly located to the rear of the Dixie Lee Restaurant on Highway 35, was hurled through the air and demolished by the winds. At least two large trees within the community had their trunks snapped near the base by the force of the gusty weather.

Medical centre break-in

The Good Medical Centre has been the latest target of a break-in in Haliburton Village.

The premises were entered sometime during the night of January 8-9. The intruders gained access to the building via an unlocked window.

Taken in the break-in was $174 cash and $24 in drugs.

An attempt was also made to gain entry to the pharmacy adjoining the centre. Two attempts, one at forcing a door, and a second at breaking through a wall failed.

The matter is being investigated by Constable Bill Clendenning.

FROM THE CHAMBER

By Bob Stinson

Haliburton Highlands
the heart of getaway country

In this day of such advanced technology it is difficult to imagine the fact that there are a number of people within our own community who have never acquired the ability to read. This fact can be corrected with the co-operation of both the individuals concerned and some volunteer helpers.

Not being able to read must be not only an extreme handicap in working and coping with day to day situations, but an embarrassment as well. If you know someone with this handicap please urge them, for their own benefit to accept help. With a little effort, within a year they can be reading this newspaper like their friends or neighbours. It requires one session of one hour per week with a volunteer for one year along with practice in their own time to develop reading skills.

Volunteers are also being sought for this program. They will receive a one and a half day training session on how to teach in this project before being asked to work on a one on one basis with the subject. They will be asked to commit themselves to at least 50 hours in total with an individual at a time and place convenient to them both.

Our Canada Manpower Office in Haliburton has agreed to co-ordinate this project and complete confidentiality is assured. If you know of someone that needs this assistance, or you wish to volunteer yourself please call the Manpower Office at 457-1316 and talk to them about it. You'll be glad you did.

Another ski hill

It may seem somewhat ironic that in this year of such tragic snow conditions, when we have yet to see a day of Alpine skiing take place, a second ski hill is taking shape. It says much for the enthusiasm and optimism of Bill and Sue Thomas who have been working diligently on this project, and we are sure that in the long run it will pay dividends for not only themselves, but the area as a whole.

The new facility is taking shape near Wilberforce on the property known as Wilbermere Lake Tent and Trailer Park, which is also operated by Bill and Sue. They have two slopes ready now (except for the snow) and a beginners hill, all serviced by a rope tow. We certainly will be watching this development with much interest. We wish them much success in the endeavour and know they can count on the communities support.

The Inn at Sir Sam's has undergone some considerable renovations this fall and now boasts an enlarged lounge and disco-floor. They could use some more snow up there too, but without it you can still enjoy the atmosphere.

New proprietors

We are very pleased to welcome Chris and Jim Andrews into our business community and we imagine many of you may have already met them. They have been working with Adrian Whitfield and the Western Tire organization over the last few months to acquire all the necessary expertise to provide top notch assistance to their customers. If you haven't already done so, drop in and say hello and welcome. We wish them well and know they will be an asset to the area.

Adrian will be carrying on with his plumbing sales and service from the adjacent building and is anticipating expanding this service.

Service and swap day

The Haliburton County Snowmobile Association in co-operation with Minden Marine have organized a free service clinic where those in attendance may obtain tips on how to service and maintain their own snow machines (all makes) and take part in trading of machines, accessories and equipment. It's happening on Saturday, February 2, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. just in time to get ready for Snowerama.

Billets needed

When the Lake Kashagawigamog Hockey Tournament began most of the boys involved were housed in the school for the week-end. This year they hope to have all the boys billeted in private homes as guests for the weekend and are asking for your help. It is desirable to place two boys in a home and we can guarantee you will enjoy their company and have a ball cheering for their team at the tournaments. It's a great way to get involved in an event that draws over 300 spectators to our area each week-end.

The Pee Wee (12 yrs. old) tournament is held on the week-end of January 25, 26 and 27 and the Atom (10 yrs. old) is held on February 8, 9 and 10. If you would like to help phone Darlene Mc Knight at 457-2235 or Joan Stinson at 457-1110. You'll be glad you did.

Wolf bounty questioned

"Why should taxpayers be subsidizing trappers?"

That question, voiced by Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt at the January 9 meeting, summarized the council's feelings with regard to the wolf bounty.

The matter was brought up for discussion by the reeve. He noted that the county is currently paying trappers and others $25 for each wolf killed in Haliburton. However, he pointed out that wolf pelts are drawing an excellent price in the fur auctions. "They are getting close to $100 for their skins at the auction," Nesbitt commented.

The reeve also pointed out that the practice of slitting the hide between the eyes when a wolf bounty is claimed can result in the trappers receiving less money for their pelts. The slitting is done to mark the pelt so that bounty is not claimed on the same wolf in a number of jurisdictions.

While the bounty is paid by the county government, the township by-law officers are the ones to inspect the carcasses and must approve the bounty payment.

According to Dick Schell, by-law officer for Anson Hindon and Minden, there were only 15 claims for bounty in 1979 and 25 in 1978.

Councillor Len Lonsberry suggested the bounty only be paid when the pelt prices drop below a certain level at the fur auctions.

Reeve Nesbitt suggested that the matter be brought to the attention of the county council, although he expressed the opinion that the question would be "shot down".

Nesbitt said he felt the wolf population wasn't cutting into the size of the deer herd in the area. He blamed the hunting methods, including the use of telescopic sights and dogs for hunting, for the decline in the deer population.

Road subsidy up

The road subsidy for 1980 for the municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden has been approved by the Ministry of Transportation and Communications. The approval was announced at the January 9 meeting of the township council.

According to the figures the township will have a construction budget of $66,000, $6,000 more than last year. The maintenance budget has been increased as well, from $101,000 last year to $106,000.

The council was told that the transfer of funds from one budget to another to cover short-falls would not require the approval of MTC. Any application for supplementary funding must be approved by the provincial agency by March 31.

Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt said the township will be definitely seeking some additional funds from MTC for various projects. He said he wanted to continue to treat and surface the roads in the township and that this would require the extra funding if the work is to proceed.

Nesbitt pointed out that the subsidy is granted automatically to municipalities and that application is almost always made for additional funds to support the roads budgets.

Annual meeting

The annual meeting of the Minden Agricultural Society will be held at the Minden Municipal Office tonight (Wednesday, January 16).

A new executive for the coming year will be elected at that time. Only persons who were members of the society the last year will be entitled to vote.

The meeting gets underway at 8 p.m.

Carnival preparations

Kinsmen Club members were out in force Sunday trying to lay down a sheet of ice in anticipation of one of the main events of the Minden Winter Carnival. Don Crowe leans into the fire hose as he floods the car racing track near Bobcaygeon road. With him is Kinsmen Tom Prentice. On Sunday the track had a fairly good snow base except for the one area seen in the foreground. However mild temperatures this week could ruin any improvements in the track condition obtained by flooding during the past week.

Car strikes building

A partially successful attempt to crash through the south wall of the Minden Texaco station has resulted in a charge being laid against a local man.

The incident took place January 12 shortly after midnight.

According to police, a car, driven by Robert Heppleston, 25, of Minden, crashed into the wall on the south face of the building. The force of the impact resulted in the dislocation of several layers of cement blocks and the damaging of the window just above the point where the car struck the building. The vehicle also struck a piece of equipment inside the building and a vehicle parked in the structure was also damaged from flying debris.

Police estimate damage to the Heppleston vehicle at $3500, $3500 damage to the building and $100 damage to the vehicle inside. Heppleston was taken to Minden Red Cross Hospital, treated for minor injuries, and released.

The driver has been charged with impaired driving.

Constable Mike Smith of Minden OPP investigated the accident.

Strikes tree

Kenneth Graham, 31, of Gooderham was the victim of slippery roads Friday morning. While travelling east on the Tamarack Lake Road near Gooderham his 1975 model pick-up truck slid off the roadway and struck a tree.

The damage was estimated at $1800.

Constable Brian Dunham investigated the accident.

Highway 121

Over $2000 damage was incurred in a two car accident January 12 on Highway 121 west of Haliburton.

A 1976 model vehicle, driven by Ronald Petrini, 46, of R.R. 2 Haliburton was travelling west on the highway when it slowed to make a turn. A second vehicle, also travelling in a westerly direction, and driven by Faye Schonhoffer, 27, of Haliburton collided with the rear of the Petrini auto.

The Schonhoffer vehicle sustained $1500 damage while the damage to the Petrini car was estimated at $800. Petrini sustained minor injuries in the mishap.

OPP Constable Mike Legge investigated the accident.

Hits guide posts

A single car accident on Highway 35 north of Carnarvon has resulted in $3000 damage to a truck owned by a Minden area man.

Royce J. Harrison, 68, of R.R. 2 Minden, was travelling south on the highway January 12 when he lost control of the vehicle and struck some guide posts along the east shoulder.

The accident was investigated by Constable Jim Solway.

Strikes trailer

Two Toronto area drivers tangled in a mishap on County Road 1 early Saturday afternoon. The result was almost $4000 in damages.

Wasyl Slobodian, 55, of Mississauga was travelling east along the road in a 1978 model pick-up truck. William McFarland, 26 of Toronto, was westbound in a 1977 model station wagon with a trailer and two snowmobiles in tow. As the two vehicles passed the Slobodian vehicle struck the trailer causing the two snowmobiles to be thrown onto the road.

The Slobodian vehicle sustained $900 damage while damage to the McFarland vehicle, trailer and snowmobiles was estimated at $2950.

Provincial Constable Mike Legge investigated the accident.

Rolls down embankment

A 1976 model van rolled down an embankment at the side of Highway 35 near Wren Lake Sunday causing $3600 damage.

Testing the waters

The need for a public indoor swimming pool in Haliburton County was amply demonstrated this past week.

Sir Sandford Fleming College offered two swimming courses as part of a selection of classes for the winter season. The classes were filled within 24 hours after the newspapers, announcing the courses, were on the streets. Barb Bolin, co-ordinator for the college, described the response as "amazing".

The courses are being held at PineStone Inn, a resort complex on Highway 121 between Minden and Haliburton. The resort has the only indoor swimming facility in the county. (While the pool was installed for the enjoyment of its guests, the management of the inn has allowed the college to use the facility for these courses.)

The response indicates there is a need in this county that is not being filled. It also points out a number of serious voids in the recreation programs available to residents of Haliburton County.

For example, there is no year-round program for instructing school aged children in learn-to-swim classes, advanced swimming and diving, or life-saving skills. There are some programs during the summer months, and while these are commendable, they are dependent on the weather and water temperature and the advancement of the students is hurt by the short duration of the season.

At the other end of the age spectrum, many senior citizens were avid swimmers who may now be reluctant to continue with that activity at a public beach. The controlled, private and patrolled nature of an indoor swimming pool would be ideal for these people.

And there are other groups who may be equally reluctant, for various reasons, to use public beaches. The developmentally handicapped, for example, would benefit from the exercise and training that swimming classes could provide.

The college co-ordinator even reports that some individuals were inquiring about use of the pool for therapy purposes.

These are all specialized cases. There is a vast number of county residents who simply enjoy swimming as a recreation, people who would like to continue with the activity throughout the year.

The demand exists. How can it best be filled?

We suggest that an undertaking of this size can only be done on a county-wide basis. If one municipality were to attempt the undertaking on their own, not only would the financial burden be too heavy, but it is a certainty that people from throughout the county would want to have access to the facility. If people from every corner of Haliburton are to be welcomed at a swimming facility, financial support should come from an equally wide area.

When we refer to county-wide support, we mean that in the broadest sense of the term. This is an opportunity for the County Council, township governments, the school board, service clubs, organizations and individuals to pull together in an united effort. Like the senior citizens home Hyland Crest, it is an opportunity to demonstrate that the people of the county form a community in the true sense of the word, not just a jumbled conglomeration of separate parts.

The first step, of course, is a careful and honest appraisal of the cost to build an indoor swimming pool. Along with this should be an assessment of the annual operating costs and the projected revenues. Funding sources, including federal and provincial programs, should be identified to ascertain what degree of outside assistance is available.

With this information in hand the resident of Haliburton County should be able to make a reasoned decision as to whether the cost of building and maintaining an indoor swimming pool can be met.

REPORT FROM QUEEN'S PARK

By John Eakins, M.P.P.

I am encouraged by the number of municipalities, especially in Haliburton County, interested in the development of senior citizen housing and housing geared to income. It is appropriate that our citizens be able to live close to their own community and not have to move to large centres for housing and other services.

I have long been an advocate of developing a core and focal point in the smaller communities in Ontario. That is one reason why I strongly opposed any move to close our registry offices. Once these functions are removed, our towns and villages become less attractive as a place to live and work.

Now that Haliburton County has a number of senior citizen units and a good possibility of other subsidized housing, I feel the time has come to ask the Minister of Housing to reflect Haliburton's participation by changing the name of the Victoria Housing Authority to the Victoria-Haliburton Housing Authority. I will let you know the results of my investigation.

Injured workers

Under a bill given swift passage in the Legislature, injured workers in Ontario will receive higher Workmen's Compensation payments. Increases will be retroactive to last July 1, and will push up the maximum weekly compensation to $266.83 - an additional $33. This change will cost Ontario taxpayers $195 million.

Ministry merger blocked

A plan to merge the Ministries of Education and Colleges and Universities has been killed by the opposition parties. Even if the Bill is reintroduced in the spring, this would still be too late for the 1980-81 school budgets.

The Minister had expected to present the Bill for final approval, leading to a merger in the new year, but an all party committee refused to send it to the Legislature for a vote, and recommended that it be brought back in the spring, with a preamble explaining the reasons for the proposed change.

The policeman and the law

The Attorney-General has told the Legislature that although the police are not above the law, legislative changes may be necessary to protect them from breaking some provincial statutes. He has stated that he will review courses given to senior policemen attending the Ontario Police College to ensure they aren't encouraged to break the law.

In addition, he has stated that he disagrees with some of the testimony given by a Deputy Crown Attorney at the trial of two Metro Toronto policemen who were found guilty of using a phony affidavit in a murder investigation.

Computer check-outs

The Ontario Government is going to "extraordinary lengths" to find out how consumers feel about computerized check-outs in supermarkets before making any decisions, according to the Minister of Consumer and Commercial Relations. His Ministry will conduct a telephone survey next month of 900 consumers who use the computerized system in Ottawa, London and Hamilton "to determine their behaviour and attitudes toward the system in general and item price removal in particular".

The government has been wrestling with the issue since 1975, in the face of opposition from the Consumers Association of Canada, which is concerned that if individual prices are not displayed on products, consumer awareness of prices will diminish, as well as the ability of consumers to compare store prices.

Editor:

On several occasions during the past five years I have appealed to your readers for discarded hearing aids. The response to my appeals has been richly rewarded as hearing aids poured in from cities and towns from coast to coast.

I have since retired from the Ontario Ministry of Education but my interest in helping hearing impaired children in the West Indies has not waned.

This program, now known as the Canadian International Hearing Services is in its fourth year under the able co-ordination of Mr. Gordon Kerr, a staff member of Humber College of Applied Arts in Toronto. Gordon, along with Dr. Donald Hood, an audiologist, and Mrs. Nancy Hood, a teacher of the deaf, make an annual pilgrimage to St. Vincent, West Indies, where hearing impaired children and adults have been fitted with hearing aids.

The time has arrived for this program to be extended to other West Indian countries as the need to help their hearing impaired is equally great.

Once again I ask your readers to dig out any old or discarded hearing aids and mail them to:

What's Gone Wrong?

By: Roger Worth

A manufacturer in Windsor, Ontario, can't find a qualified millwright, even though the job pays more than $20,000 per year. Meanwhile, Alberta businesses are recruiting skilled trades people in Ontario, and a Nova Scotia contractor could use two additional carpenters – if they were available. Even big companies like General Motors have been forced to import specialized technicians from Europe.

These are only a few example of the growing shortage of skilled labor that is creating major headaches for Canadian business.

The paradox, of course, is that this labor shortage exists at a time when 800,000 or so Canadians claim they are unemployed.

Roger Worth is Director, Public Affairs, Canadian Federation of Independent Business.

What's gone wrong? Why haven't Canadians been trained to handle the kind of well-paying jobs that are now becoming available.

The simple answer is that governments have been short-sighted, spending heavily on higher education rather than concentrating on the skilled trades where opportunities now exist.

In many ways, the problem arises as a result of poor planning, and the shortage is going to get worse as the country gets set to spend a whopping $200 billion on new investments in this decade.

And while big business is certainly feeling the pinch, smaller companies are caught in an even tougher dilemma. The 55,000 members of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business, for example, repeatedly rate shortages of skilled labor as one of their top problems.

Governments aren't totally responsible for the lack of suitable training programs. Business and labor have also been reluctant to co-operate on realistic apprenticeship programs, forcing federal and provincial authorities to set up training systems that in many cases bear little relationship to the job market.

Nevertheless, all is not lost. Crash programs to train specialized trades people are already under way in some areas of the country and plans for more concentrated efforts exist.

What's needed, though, is an added push. Unless Canadians are trained to handle skilled jobs, the tremendous opportunities that present themselves in the next decade will be diminished.

Requests for swim courses swamp college

The response to a variety of swimming classes being sponsored by Sir Sandford Fleming College has been amazing acording to local co-ordinator Barb Bolin.

"The classes were full the day the newspapers were on the street," Bolin said.

The various swimming programs were announced in advertisements last week. They included recreational swimming for adults and parent and child swim for pre-schoolers. The classes are being held at PineStone Inn, the location of the only indoor pool in the county able to accomodate public groups.

Bolin said that interest in the courses flooded in from all corners of the county with many people calling to reserve a spot. She said the college did not accept telephone reservations for the courses and registration had to be done by mail or in person if the individual wanted to be guaranteed a place in the classes.

The two courses also brought to light the need for other swimming courses. "Several of those people who contacted me said they wanted pool time for therapy purposes while others were wondering about classes for school age children," Bolin said.

The co-ordinator indicated the college is limited in the number of swimming courses it can offer since the pool is a private facility. "We certainly appreciate the access PineStone has already given us to the pool," Bolin commented, "and we're now aware that the pool is there to meet the needs of their guests first of all."

She indicated that the college is planning to hold a number of swimming courses during the spring session if pool time can be arranged.

For those who called or attempted to register, and who were disappointed, Bolin suggested they contact their municipal politicians with the suggestion that a public swimming pool would be a needed facility for the area.

Other courses

The other classes being offered by the college for the winter term also are attracting a great deal of interest, according to the co-ordinator.

"The workshops in particular, where people are involved in an intensive two day learning experience as opposed to six or eight two hour night courses, are very popular." Bolin suggested that a desire to avoid night-time winter driving might be one reason for the popularity of the workshops.

The one course that is experiencing problems is skiing. Ski enthusiasts are having trouble getting excited about their sport this year, mainly due to a lack of snow. "Hopefully we'll have snow within the next few weeks so that these courses can get underway," she commented.

MTC studies township request

Representatives of the Ministry of Transportation and Communications have agreed to examine a number of locations along Highway 121 where road improvements will cut into the size of adjacent properties. The matter was brought to the attention of the MTC in a letter sent last month from Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council.

The representatives of the MTC attended the January 9 meeting of the council to discuss the matter.

They pointed out that the suggestion the ministry seek property on the other side of the road for highway improvements could prove to be more costly. A major rock cut would have to be removed in at least one case.

The councillors pointed out however that using the land on the north side of the highway would result in a number of properties being reduced to below the one acre minimum as required by by-law for rural residential lots. Councillors also expressed concern that the widening of the highway would bring the road to the "front door" of the residents concerned.

Councillor Stu Brandon commented, "Our complaint can be based on the legal implications of the smaller lot size, however there is also a moral problem here with moving the highway closer to the existing homes."

The councillors urged the MTC officials to consider using the land on the south side of the highway, currently without residences on it, for the highway widening.

The MTC officials said they would study the matter. "If the change in plans would mean an increased cost of a few thousand dollars, I can see little problem," one official commented. "But, if it means the road improvement cost is going to increase by $10,000 or more it may be impossible to get approval for the extra expense."

The meeting was told that several lots in question are actually under the one acre limit now, but that the by-law states that no action can be taken that would reduce the size of these properties any further. The lots were in existance when the by-law was first enacted.

Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt suggested that some sort of compensation may be offered by the township to the land owner on the south side of the road if the MTC decides to carry out the widening there.

Bridge

The Reeve also quizzed the officials as to whether the planned replacement of the bridge on Highway 35 at Mountain and Twelve Mile Lakes, would be going ahead this year.

The official said the project is part of the construction schedule for the coming season, but indicated that further financial restrictions may result in the work being delayed.

Committees appointed

Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council completed some "housekeeping" chores when they met at the first regular session of the new year. The January 9 meeting saw the appointment of a number of individuals to various committees serving the municipality. The following is a resume of those appointments:

Cemetery Board for 1980: Councillors Doug Pritchard and Stu Brandon, Joe Cox, Alan Rogers, Gord Monk, Doug McGee and Jeanette Payne.

Ontario Home Renewal Program (OHRP) committee, until November 30, 1980: Reeve Sinc Nesbitt, Deputy Reeve Doug Pritchard, Councillor Len Lonsberry and Anson, Hindon and Minden by-law enforcement officer Dick Schell.

Library Board for 1980: Councillor Len Lonsberry, Shirley McGee, Irene Moore, Harold Morgan, Mae Wolfraim and Joan Archer.

Recreation Committee for 1980: Fay Mansfield, Bill Everson, Ken Bannon, Ross Warburton, Councillors Lyle McKnight and Stuart Brandon and township clerk Elinor Burke.

Home tops Hartwick 13 - 3

The "Boys at Home" did a job on the Hartwick Construction hockey club Monday night as they racked up a baker's dozen to come out on top 13-3.

Dave Hartwick poured on the goals for the Hardware group as he scored four goals and assisted on five others. John Barkwell scored four times, getting credit for two assists. Kevin Newell also helped the Hardware team by adding two goals and three assists. Mark Derry netted the puck three times for Home Hardware to earn himself a hat-trick. Randy Ellison was in net for the winners.

Rick Hartwick scored a goal and an assist for the Contractors. Dave Pettes and Harris Steele got the other Hartwick goals.

Rockcliffe win

The other hockey game Monday night was also a romp. Rockcliffe Hotel smashed Hall's Insurance 11 - 4. Rockcliffe's two big stars of the night earned seven points each. Larry Sawyer got four goals and three assists while his team-mate Shane McKelvey netted three goals and assisted on four others.

Dean Hewitt put two pucks behind Hall's Insurance goaltender Doug Pearson. Don Cummings, on top of his three assists, got the other Rockcliffe goal.

Barry Shaw got credit for two of Hall Insurance's four goals, as Steve Harper and Reg Everley scored the other Hall's Insurance markers.

Huskies win twice

The Haliburton Huskies out-skated, out-passed and out-scored the Lakefield Chiefs 6-4 Saturday night at the Haliburton Arena. The only obstacle that kept the Huskies from blowing the Chiefs out of their building was the Lakefield goaltender, Rob Norris.

The Haliburton squad charged at the Lakefield net for numerous scoring opportunities early in the first period. However Norris kept them off the score sheet until 17:38 of the first period when Joe Roberts connected for his first of two goals of the night. The opening period ended with the score tied at one apiece.

Lakefield's heavy hitting in the second period didn't slow down the fast-skating Huskies. Haliburton captain Joe Roberts, led the team on a series of quick, sharp passing attacks which were turned aside by the Lakefield goalie.

The only Huskies tally came on an amazing "picture goal" at 11:48. With only a few seconds left in a power-play, Chris Hodgson took the puck across centre ice and found himself breaking in on a two on one with Dwight Sisson. He cleverly lured the Lakefield defender toward himself as he slid the puck to Sisson who drove it high to the top corner of the net with a helpless Rob Norris sprawled on the ice. Lakefield tied the game up with 34 seconds left in the period on a sloppy play by Haliburton goaltender Craig Wood.

The third period saw both teams take advantage of their scoring opportunities. Roberts, who was on the ice for all four goals in the third period Haliburton rally, opened the scoring by motoring down the length of the ice, around the Lakefield defence, and right in front of the net where he slipped the puck through a startled Lakefield goaltender's legs.

Haliburton's Steve Davies scored a power-play goal less than two minutes later to take a 4-2 lead. Soon after Lakefield took command and Bill Rowe scored two quick goals to even the game once again.

A lack of discipline on the part of the Lakefield defence allowed Kevin O'Hara to walk right in front of the opposition net and slap it in to give Haliburton the lead. With 30 seconds left in the game, the Chiefs pulled their goalie, in favour of an extra attacker. Huskies forward Steve Davies scored an easy empty net goal to wrap up the game.

Final score, Haliburton 6, Lakefield 4.

Sunday game

The Haliburton Huskies brought the Bancroft Jets down to earth Sunday evening, and in doing so joined their rivals in a tie for first place in the OHA Junior D league. The Huskies, led by Dave Brown's four goal outburst, and Joe Roberts superior play-making, defeated the Jets 7-5 in a game played at Wilberforce.

The Huskies jumped out to a quick lead with goals from Chris Hodgson and Mike Scheffee. Bancroft bounced back and quickly got two goals to even the score. Dave Brown gave Haliburton a 3-2 lead with his first goal of the night, as the team headed to the dressing room with a one goal edge on Bancroft.

The second period was much like the first, the Jets were not able to tame the Huskies. As a result the Huskies out-scored the Bancroft club 3-1 in the period to take a 6-3 lead in the game. Dave Brown got two goals in the second period and Dwight Sisson one to pace the Huskies into command.

Bancroft pulled things together in the third period and gave the Huskies a bit of a scare. Only 2:30 into the period Hinze closed the gap for Bancroft, with the assist going to R. Fransky. With the score 6-4 in Haliburton's favour, the Huskies tightened up defensively, halting many on-coming Jet attacks. Dave Brown scored his fourth goal of the night 9:19 into the period to give Haliburton some breathing room.

Bancroft played hard, but tight checking and good puck control by the Huskies only allowed Bancroft one last point. Rupnow scored Bancroft's final goal of the evening at 17:58.

We wouldn't worry about what people think,
And you'll have to admit this is true
If we stopped to consider,
How very seldom they do!
Crowded conditions? Masses of humanity?
Traffic congestion, Put you to rout?
The solution is a simple one;
Just give up camping out!
As we grow older, we flatter ourselves,
And make somewhat of a fuss,
That we are leaving our vices behind,
When in truth, they're leaving us!

outdoors

by Ron Reid of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists

On these cold winter mornings, as you shiver through the daily ritual of scraping the frost off your car, it's easy to wonder how anything could survive our Canadian winters. That same thought prompted researchers at Cornell University to look more closely at the Black-capped chickadee, one of our most common winter birds, to find out how it copes with the extremes of a harsh winter.

Small birds lose heat more quickly than larger animals, especially at colder temperatures or in the wind. On average, chickadees weigh less than half an ounce, or about the same as the combined weight of four pennies. Even though their down insulation and their protective overcoat of feathers greatly reduces heat loss, chickadees must have a diet rich in energy to maintain their body heat.

But unlike other winter birds, the chickadee can turn down the thermostat to conserve heat. During the day, a chickadee's body temperature is about 108 degrees F (42 degrees C). But at night, this body temperature was found to drop by as much as twenty Fahrenheit degrees, causing heartbeat and breathing to become slower. In this controlled state of hypothermia, the rate of heat loss and demand for energy is considerably reduced.

Chickadees also choose night roosting spots within a tree cavity or nest hole, or in dense evergreens, to provide shelter from the elements. Through these mechanisms, the reserves of energy-rich fat accumulated the previous day can carry the bird through the night, with a small surplus left to fuel the morning search for food.

Despite these adaptations, as many as seven of every ten young chickadees will not survive the winter. But in the early spring, when the woods ring with the "fee-bee" calls of male chickadees proclaiming their territory, pairs will be formed once again and nest cavities in dead stubs excavated. From a single pair, as many as 12 to 16 young are produced each year, usually from two broods. That surplus allows the population to successfully carry on.

The chickadee has been suggested as a prime candidate for Ontario's official bird - always cheerful, industrious, and handsome. And most appropriately, it stays to endure our Canadian winters with the rest of us.

IN MEMORIAM

HEWITT - In loving memory of a dear son and brother "Sterling" who left us suddenly January 19, 1974.
You bade no one your last farewell,
You said goodbye to none.
The heavenly gates were opened,
A loving voice said "come".
We often sit and think of you, the things you used to say and do.
We wonder why you had to die without a chance to say goodbye.
Though out of sight, you're still missed, loved, still our.
You will live with us in memory until the end of time.

Lovingly remembered by Mom, Brother, Sisters and families. 1C
